Description and determination of the product:

Swirl diffuser with adjustable blades VVKR presents a convenient air distribution element consisting of a box and a front panel. The diffuser front panel is comprised of arranged, individually manually adjustable blades, through which air is supplied into the working area. VVKR enables the airflow direction to be adapted to any additional interior construction changes at any time. The ceiling swirl diffuser is connected to the air duct system via a flexible round hose, in either vertical or horizontal configuration. VVKR can be used for both supply and exhaust air.
